Some material also pertains to Berckelman's periods of international travel and collection, with particular representation of England and Central Europe. The most significant feature of the collection is Berckelman's extensive array of bookplates, comprising both those commissioned for his own use and those owned by others, obtained through exchange or in the form of replica prints or publications.

Biographical Note

Colin Blake Berckelman (1907-1965) was an Australian bibliophile, author, amateur photographer, and collector of material primarily related to books, bookplates, and printing material, particularly Australiana. Born in Bondi, Sydney on 1 May 1907 to Lewis John Berckelman and Emma Lillian Berckelman (née Blake), he attended Sydney Grammar School, and entered the cadet force at the age of 14. By 1925, at the age of 18, he had entered the Australian Citizen Militia. In later life, his employment as the New South Wales and Northern Territory agent for Jackson's, Locksmiths of Tasmania and numerous other business interests accorded him significant leisure time for the indulgence of his interests. Consequently, he frequented various booksellers across Sydney, amassing his own collection and forming connections with other new and established bibliophiles. Notably, he was a founding member of the Book Collectors' Society of Australia, acting as secretary and treasurer from its establishment in 1944 to his death in 1965, in addition to participating in numerous other societies and associations, many of which related to the collecting of books and bookplates. One such organisation was the Friends of the University of Sydney Library, with his wife 'Jo' (Allison Evelyn Anne Pritchard, married 19 December, 1952) also being a university employee.

Following Colin Berckelman's death on 22 April 1965, Jo Berckelman arranged for the Fisher Library to acquire a large proportion of his collection, partially addressing concerns raised by Berckelman himself that the library owned relatively little material relating to Australia. The purchase was completed between 1966-7, encouraged by acquaintances of Berckelman's and with assistance from the Friends of the University of Sydney Library. The material purchased by the library includes both Berckelman's personal papers and his literary and artistic collections, with a particularly high number of items reflecting his interest in bookplates, politics, photography, Australiana, and Norfolk and Lord Howe Islands.
